REPORT AND ACCOUNTS

The Committee of Management have pleasure in presenting their 187th Annual Report.

WAVERTREE SCHOOL

During each academic year, Schools usually have some incidents or highlights which distinguish that period from its predecessors and gives children and staff a way of identifying it in later years. In 1977-78 three widely varied events occurring independently could affirm the future of Wavertree's role in the education of the visually handicapped.

The first and perhaps most important was the growth in numbers and size of the Secondary Unit which ended the year with ten children, all of whom required an individual form of tuition. The continuing need for the type of facilities provided was confirmed by the parents of the children attending, and also by the Local Authorities whose support was considerable. At the end of the year the Unit was expected to receive the formal approval of the Department of Education and Science.

Secondly, after four years of deliberation, the Warnock Committee Report "Special Educational Needs" was published, and is likely to make a great impact on Special Education generally.

The third relates to one pupil whose musical talent has, over the years, given great pleasure to staff and children. Colin Dawson was admitted to the School in January 1971, and very quickly showed a natural talent for music and particularly piano and organ playing. In December of 1977 he passed the Grade VI Music Examination and gained 144 marks from a possible 150. This led to him being declared a Gold Medallist of the Associated Board of the Royal College of Music and he was also awarded the Sheila Mossman Prize. During 1978 he took the Grade VII Examination with distinction. Colin's Music Tutor, Miss Flora Cann, arranged at varying stages of his progress for him to take part in Music Festivals and Colin developed into a very competent and able performer. At the end of the School year Colin transferred to the Royal National College, Hereford, where his musical talent should continue to develop and play a major part in his future.

Children at Wavertree have always been encouraged to develop natural talents and interests and over the years a considerable number have been very successful in their chosen careers and also in adapting to the world of the adult in business, office, industry and teaching.

Not all children, however, have the talent necessary for outstanding success but have to measure their attainment in a much narrower field. To see a child able to communicate effectively, by speech, braille or type, and for them to have some command of mobility, can give great satisfaction to those responsible for their training and education.

Apart from Colin, other leavers at the end of the School year included:—

Leonard Dewhurst — entering employment and further education.

Stephen Musker — to the Deaf Blind Centre, Pathways, Condoval Hall, Shrewsbury.

Andrew Home — to St. Vincent's School for the Blind & Partially Sighted.

Heather Young — to Chorleywood College, London.

Educational outings to the country, the seaside, museums, libraries and other centres of interest were undertaken during a busy year. Camping holidays, Open days for parents and friends, the Taxi Drivers' and other outings to Southport and the Lord Mayor's visit to the Christmas Entertainment all took place as usual.

Apart from these perhaps more entertaining events, the year for the children consisted of acquiring new words, developing new skills, learning to give and forgive — in fact all that makes up the routine life of the School.

ACTIVITIES IN THE SECONDARY UNIT

WAVERTREE SCHOOL — DEVELOPMENT

The School was in a position to provide accommodation for the Secondary Unit by making available Clifton House, which is adjacent to the Main School Building. It is likely that in the long term some necessary structural and re-equipping works may be necessary to the House, but for the immediate purposes of education and training, Clifton House has proved satisfactory. The advantages of utilising this property were very favourable. It separates the secondary age pupils from the primary, and also provides an area in which the older pupils can have much more freedom to obtain work and living experience.

A project to provide a covered walkway linking the South Wing Classrooms and the McGregor Hall had to be deferred, due to contractual problems, but it is hoped that work will commence on this during 1978-79.

The work of decorating and refurbishing the main building has carried on throughout the year.

OBITUARY

It is with great sadness that we report the death during the year of three of those with whom the School, in its recent history, has been very closely linked. All, in their way, have made a great impact on the School's development and its activities since the end of the Second World War, and will be remembered for their unstinting efforts both for the children and for the often involved matters of administration and management.

Mrs. Doreen Wise died suddenly on March 13th, 1978. She had been a Manager since 1948 and during this period had served as a Member of the Ladies' Committee, which was later amalgamated with the Management Committee. In 1968 she became Vice-President, and on her retirement in 1971 retained this important role in an Honorary capacity until her death. She will be remembered at Wavertree for her unfailing charm and her ability to help solve the many problems of the busy School.

Mr. Edward Keates had been ill for some considerable time, and his death on 17th August, 1978, spared him further distress. He had borne his illness with some fortitude and hospital treatment had become part of his life. He was appointed Superintendent, and was based at the former Hardman Street School, in October 1945. On its closure in 1957, it gave him the opportunity to expand the work at Wavertree and a large improvement programme was implemented under his supervision. On his retirement in July 1969, he retained some contact with the School and kept a keen interest in the changing pattern of education.

Mr. James Pearce died as a result of injuries sustained in an accident on August 12th, 1978. As Chairman of the Taxi Drivers' Blind Children's Outings Committee, of which he was a founder member, he was, with his Committee, responsible for the organisation of the Annual visit to Southport of which 29 had taken place up to the time of his death. His dedication to the interests of the children, his constant search for ways in which to ease the impact of their handicap, and the effort he showed to make each successive outing a memorable occasion will be sadly missed.

absolutely and free of duty for the general purposes of the said School AND SO THAT the receipt of the Treasurer or other proper Officer of the said School for the time being shall be a good discharge of such legacy to my Trustees and so that my Trustees shall not be responsible to see to the application thereof.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE ROYAL SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND, LIVERPOOL

1791 The Liverpool School for the Indigent Blind was opened in Commutation Row. This was the first School for the Blind to be established in the British Isles and second only to Paris in the world.

The School was founded by Edward Rushton, who was blinded at sea when 19 years of age and became a bookseller in Paradise Street, Liverpool. He received considerable help from his friend J. Christie, a blind musician who became one of the first teachers in the Institution.

The Reverend Henry Dannett, The Vicar of St. John's, Liverpool, hearing of the scheme from Edward Rushton, became co-founder and played a large part in obtaining the support of the inhabitants of Liverpool and the North West to the venture.

The Seal of the School for the Indigent Blind

He managed the Institution until 1793, when the management was taken over by a Committee drawn from the Members of the Charity.

- 1800 The School moved to a newly constructed building in Duncan Street, Liverpool, which provided residential accommodation.
- 1806 His Royal Highness, The Prince of Wales, visited the School and became its Patron.
This Royal Patronage has extended up to the present day.
- 1819 The Chapel of the School for the Blind was built adjoining the School, and was famous for the quality of its music and services.
- 1829 An Act of Incorporation was passed in Parliament, which regulated the government of the School and the Chapel.
- 1851 The School moved to new premises in Hardman Street, and the Chapel was taken down and re-erected alongside the School.
- 1898 The Wavertree School for Blind Children was built for the education of school age children. Hardman Street School remained as a technical and training centre for the adult blind. At the time of the erection of Wavertree School, a donation of £10,000 was made, approximately one third of the cost. The donor was Miss Mary Hornby of Walton, whose generosity to Wavertree School during its early years was extensive.
- 1928 The Chapel for the Blind was closed and services discontinued. The site on which the Chapel had stood was later used for an extension of the Hardman Street School and provided for the erection of sales departments, workshops, and domestic science training areas.

- 1945 Under the Education Act, 1944, the Wavertree School became the Junior School for the North West. Secondary School age children were transferred to Henshaw's, Manchester. Hardman Street became the Technical School in the North West for blind adolescent students.
- 1957 Due to changing social conditions and the availability of open industry to blind trainees, the Technical School at Hardman Street closed.
During 1972 the Bronze Doors, which were an important feature of the Hardman Street School, were removed and sited at Wavertree.
- 1966 By the Liverpool Corporation (General Powers Act) 1966, the institution was renamed The School for the Blind, Liverpool. In July of the same year, Her Majesty the Queen graciously commanded that the title should become The Royal School for the Blind, Liverpool.
- 1968 The Abbeyholme Preparatory School adjacent to Wavertree School closed and was purchased by the Trustees. It unfortunately required demolition but became the site of the School's adventure playground and mobility area.
- 1973 An adjoining property, Clifton House, was purchased and converted.
- 1974/76 A large scheme of improvement comprising classrooms, subject teaching areas and living quarters, was completed.
- 1978 Approval was given to providing a Secondary Age Unit.

INFORMATION FOR DONORS AND SUBSCRIBERS

The Royal School for the Blind, Liverpool, being a Charity, is not liable to Income Tax, but generally all subscribers have to pay tax on the income out of which payment is made for subscriptions. The School is allowed under the Income Tax Acts to recover any tax paid by the Subscriber in relation to a subscription, but only if a seven-year deed of covenant has been signed. Thus £1 per annum for seven years becomes £10.50 after recovery of the tax and £5 per year would become £52.29 at the standard rate of tax.

Copies of covenant, donation and bankers order forms are enclosed with this report, or can be obtained.

OLD PUPILS FUND

This fund enables the Committee to keep in touch with all pupils who, after training, may require advice or financial help.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND DONATIONS

Are received by A. A. Hawkins, Esq., Treasurer, Midland Bank Ltd., 32 Rodney Street, Liverpool, the Liverpool Council of Social Service, 14 Castle Street, Liverpool, and the Secretary/Bursar.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS

TO THE COMMITTEE OF THE ROYAL SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND, LIVERPOOL:

We have examined the accounts set out on pages 1 to 7. These have been prepared under the historical cost convention.

In our opinion, these accounts give, under the accounting convention stated above, a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Royal School for the Blind Liverpool, at 31st March, 1978, and of its results and source and application of funds for the year ended on that date.
